For those new to the buzz, Mitolyn is a 2026 breakout dietary supplement targeting mitochondrial health—the cell "powerhouses" that produce 90% of your ATP energy and drive fat burning. Unlike stimulant-loaded fat burners (caffeine jitters, anyone?), it's a non-GMO, USA-made (GMP-certified) blend of six plant extracts in veggie capsules: Maqui Berry, Rhodiola Rosea, CoQ10 (Ubiquinol), L-Carnitine, Amla, and Schisandra. Take 2 daily with meals; no fillers, soy/dairy-free.

Core Claims (From Official Site & Studies): Revives low mito levels (Harvard 2026: Common in overweight folks), boosting energy (22% fatigue drop per JACC), metabolism (1-2 lbs/12 weeks via L-Carnitine, Obesity Reviews), and clarity (Rhodiola's 18% biogenesis, Phytomedicine). Aimed at 30+ with burnout or stalls—pairs with diet/exercise for best odds.

Why the hype? 2026's "mito-revolution" (NIH: Dysfunction links to obesity/fatigue) meets clean wellness trends. But community says: Subtle, not slam-dunk. 90-day refund eases trials. Now, let's hear from users.
